NOTES:

i) Single parent family

A single parent family means a family with a parent without a spouse, living with at least one dependent child, acquired either by marriage or out of wedlock and living alone because they are single, widowed, divorced or because one of the two parents has been declared absent from court or one of the two spouses serving a prison sentence of more than six months.

ii) Orphan's benefit

Orphan's benefit is payable to a minor:

- a. when both parents are deceased and at least one of them was insured;
- b. after the death of the parent who was, at the time of death, exclusively or mainly maintaining the minor (in cases where the parents were not living together);
- c. when one parent (the mother or the father) dies and the other is ineligible for a surviving spouse's pension; or
- d. when the mother, who was receiving a surviving spouse's pension, remarries.

MINOR means: ● any child under the age of 15, ● single son between the ages of 15-25, who receives regular training in an educational institution or serves in the National Guard, ● single daughter between the ages of 15-23 who receives regular education in an educational institution, ● a single child regardless of age who is permanently incapable of self-sustenance.
