Module Description

Module ΔΤΠ512 «Fundamentals of Economics, Accounting and Finance», provides students with an analytical framework that incorporates three modules:

1. Economics, where the course provides the knowledge and appropriate tools to teach students to think as economists and to apply economic theory to the decisions of domestic and international businesses.
2. Finance, where the course introduces the basic concepts on the theory and practice of finance, with a particular emphasis on helping managers make the right corporate finance decisions.
3. Accounting, where the course objective is to provide students with the knowledge and ability to conduct the accounting process necessary for each manager in a modern organization.
